Victory for PSA member in North West

The PSA successfully assisted a member at the Department of Human Settlements in a case of unfair labour practice related to an unfair suspension, as per section 186(2)(b) of the Labour Relations Act.

After the member sought the PSA's intervention, a dispute was declared. The PSA pursued both the immediate upliftment of the suspension and compensation. It was determined that the suspension was procedurally unfair. As a result, the member's suspension was lifted with immediate effect, allowing the member to return to work upon receiving the award. Additionally, the member was granted compensation.

The member expressed satisfaction with the PSA's support and successful resolution of the matter.
